Board Hears Report On Special Education

through local programs, regional cooperative programs, or tuition assistance for handicapped children where no public school program is available.

To carry out the provisions of this standard, the division superintendent and the school board are required to identify through the use of diagnostic procedures all exceptional children in the school division, and submit to the Board of Education an acceptable plan to provide appropriate educational opportunities for them. The plan may be implemented through local or regional programs, or by providing tuition assistance when public school programs are not available.

In the recently conducted kindergarten registration, 100 children were registered for the proposed program. S chool Board members voted to follow through with plans to operate a public kindergarten to begin for the 1973-74 school year.

In other business the board approved the purchase of four new school buses. As the bids were identical, two will be purchased from Lawson Ford, Inc. and two will be purchased from Moses Motor Company.

Frank Chuchek, Administrative Assistant, reported that 47% of the time has elapsed since the contract was let on the new high school and workers are right on schedule at present. However, in the future, due to the delay in getting materials needed progress may slow down. He further reported that one-third of the new high school will house the Vocational Agricultural Department.

Eugene Peyton, Superintendent of Schools, reported to board members that a letter had been received regarding the budget adjustment of $16,000 plus dollars not approved by the Board of Supervisors. The board supported the superintendent in the writing of a letter to the Board of Supervisors asking that this amount of money be taken from the area of instruction thus not reducing any one category.

Vote to Support Fire Department.

Sanitary Landfill as approved by Sam Kerr, attorney for the board. The Sanitary Landfill to be used for the disposal of solid waste in the county is scheduled to be in operation before July 1.

Gene Richardson, Sheriff of Appomattox County, and Terry Griffin, Criminal Justice Planner from Lynchburg, appeared before the board regarding the Central Virginia Civil Disorder Control Plan. Distrubances or riots are not anticipated but it is good to know protection would be available and steps to secure assistance from outside the county were discussed. The board voted to enter in a reciprocal agreement with the Control Plan. There will be no cost to the county.

In other action, Gene Richardson was granted authority to attend a SECCDOC five-day training school in Augusta, Georgia and will be reimbursed for car expenses covering the trip.

The Board of Supervisors had at their May meeting voted to instruct the Appomattox County School Board that the 16,000 plus that was cut from the school budget be taken from administration and not from any other expenses. At their meeting last Friday, the board voted to amend the motion stating that the $16,000 plus be taken from the instructional area and not from maintainance.

The Pastor Speaks

THE CHURCH HOLY?
BY Rev. E. Moray Peoples, Jr.
Vicar, St. Anne's Episcopal Church

Holy. That term gets used in may ways, doesn't it? All the way for Holy Cow to Holy God. And that, you must admit, is a broad spectrum!

The historic meaning of the word is to be set-apart. To be Holy is to be separated from the ordinary (or daily) for unique purpose.

And therein lies a problem for us Christians, individually and as the Church. The problem arises with balance. We interpret the word "Holy" in such a strict sense that we exclude ourselves from the world.

To be "of the world", and yet totally involved in "another", is to have a split-personality. I do not believe God created split-personalities, but rather whole ones. God does not mean for us to live our lives in a dream world, but in the world He lovingly created.

So, for you and me to be Holy is for us to do two things at once. We live in this world, but we also live in another. The second is the world of God's Promise.

Material things are not evil. God created them, too. To live only for material things is narrow-minded, God has Promised us more. What we HAVE now and what we ARE now are Holy. What is to come is also Holy. Let us live now in Hope of His Promise.

Thanks be to God.

Virginia, and in Riverview High School, Courtland, Va. After working one year with the Virginia Department of Highways, he returned to teaching at the Georgia Tyler High School in Windsor.

A continuous progress instructional program was initiated at the Intermediate School under Mr. Beamon's direction. Emphasis has been placed on staff development through in-service, State Department of Education staff members have played an integral part in the advancement of an improved instructional program. He has been involved in study and plans for a middle-school organization which will be begun here for the 1974-75 session.

Mr. Beamon and his family will leave Appomattox during the last week in June to make their home in Colonial Bdach, Virginia.

The Sunday School Lesson

HERBERT C. BRADSHAW
P. O. Box 1833
Durham, N.C., 27702

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for June 17, 1973.
Topic: More Than Lip Service
Scripture: Exodus 20:7; Matt. 5:33-37; 6:1-6; 7:21-23; 21:28-32; Mark 7:5-8

"Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven." Matt. 7:21

Two emphases stand out in this International Sunday School lesson based on the Third Commandment, "You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain . . .": the use of the divine name in a profane way, the common interpretation of the commandment, and its use in an insincere way, as we learn from Jesus' exposition in the Sermon on the Mount.

The way in which we use any name reflects the respect or lack of respect we have for it. Respect may degenerate into lack of respect with the continuing derogatory use of a name. To use God's name profanely, to use it idly and insincerely either indicate or herald a declining reverence for God, Himself. Since an individual's spiritual health depends upon a proper regard for God, a law instructing mankind in the proper use of God's name is necessary to give needed guidance.

As the Third Comandment teaches, an important aspect of reverence for God is the proper use of His name. To use God's name reverently indicates a becoming respect for Him who bears the name. To use it otherwise indicates a lack of respect for God. If a person is to experience a right relationship to God, he must honor and reverence Him, and this no one can do if he uses the divine name irreverently, insincerely, contemptuously, or blasphemously. Disrespect for the name is the outward expression of an inward disrespect for the bearer of the name.

Both the profane and the insincere use of God's name are contemporary problems. Both are in wide practice, so commonplace, in fact, that people seem not to realize the seriousness of their offense to God's name. Yet the levity with which God's name is so often used is symptomatic of lack of reverence for God and of concern for His will and His work and for as a force and a factor in human life. How lightly God is regarded in contemporary society is evident in the casualness with which His name is used, both in cursing and in idle reference.

A major difference is the profane and insincere use of the divine name lies with the user. Even those who use God's name in profanity realize that it is sinful to do so, but in the impulsive expression of self-will they give the priority to self over God. The idle or insincere use of God's name may be self-deceptive. The person who uses it so may regard himself a worshipper of God. This sort of use of the divine name may convince the user that he is indeed a true believer, a citizen of the kingdom of heaven. It is of those who use God's name insincerely and idly that Jesus was speaking when He said, "Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter into the kingdom of heaven . . ." The qualification for citizenship in the kingdom is not giving lip service to God, but in obedience to Him and true service, Jesus also had reference to the idle and insincere use of God's name when He warned against practicing one's piety in public, against praying to be seen of men. Seemingly pious use of God's name, when done insincerely, is to take His name in vain.

Talk is no substitute for practice, as Jesus made plain, when He said that those who enter the kingdom of heaven are those who do the will of the Father. That this is so should be evident. Talk is cheap, we often say, and it is as much so in the religious world as it is in the secular. Talk requires no output of real effort. Talk may not reflect accurately the heart of the person. Therefore it provides no evidence as to what a person is. To to God's will requires conscious effort and action. Unless talk is confirmed in action and conduct, it is merely sounding brass and tinkling cymbal.
